*Rediscovering Love and Compassion:
In Caring Practice and in Caring Science*

Penta Cara

Acknowledgement

MacEwan University recognizes the importance of honouring and acknowledging Treaty 6 Territory as Canada and Canadians work toward strengthening relations and building bridges with all Aboriginal communities.

Treaty 6 was signed on August 23, 1876 at Fort Carlton in Saskatchewan. The total area of the Treaty stretches from western Alberta, through Saskatchewan and into Manitoba; and includes 50 First Nations. Provisions in the Treaty recognize the notion of the medicine chest as well as the right to education (<http://www.treatysix.org/>).

MacEwan values the historical importance and offerings of the Aboriginal Peoples and their cultures and appreciates the significant contribution that the Aboriginal community engaged in the past as well as today and in the future. Honouring the right of First Nations for self-determination must be respected; including the right to select their own government and political structures, and to decide and lead the social, cultural, spiritual, and economic progress of their people.

In the spirit of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada, Faculty at MacEwan have the responsibility to shape the views of student who will then share knowledge with others and engage in care which honours diversity.

The Sculpture – Penta Cara

The new symbol of International Association for Human Caring (IAHC), in the form of a trophy sized stainless steel sculpture, is named Penta Cara, and represents five aspects of natural and exponential caring.

Created by world-renowned artist, Gloria Tew, and commissioned by the current president of IAHC, Patrick Dean, Penta Cara is reminiscent of Fibonacci's mathematical spiral.

Presentations on the sculpture's meaning, in terms of natural and exponential caring, will be given during this conference, by Patrick Dean.

Sister Marie Simone Roach

July 30, 1922 – July 2, 2016

Roman Catholic Nun, Registered Nurse, scholar, department chair, educator, ethicist, mentor, friend, and colleague. In 1980, the Canadian Nurses Association requested Sister Simone design a code of ethics to guide everyday practice for registered nurses in Canada; although revisions to the code have happened it continues to reflect her original intent. For her life of dedication to the profession and discipline of nursing she became a member of the Order of Canada in 2010; specifically for her advancement of nursing education and ethics.

She was born, Eileen Roach, on July 30, 1922, to parents Mary and Simon; her religious name is in honour of her parents. Growing up in New Waterford, Cape Breton Island, she remembers a lot of hard work with four sisters and six brothers, but also a home full of love. She became a nurse after graduating from St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing. The Sisters of St. Martha were in charge of the local hospital and their spiritual actions influenced her decision to join their congregation professing her final vows in 1950. However, this wasn't the end of her formal studies – graduating with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing from St. Francis Xavier, a Master of Science in Nursing (Education) from Boston University, receiving her PhD in 1970 from Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., and finally a Postdoctoral scholar in ethics at Harvard Divinity School in Massachusetts.

Her scholarly pursuits began with understanding the contemporary ethics of human nature and caring. She recognized that, “caring is the most common, authentic criterion of humanness” (2002, p. 28). Her caring theory, Caring, The Human Mode of Being provided guidance to her question, “What is a nurse doing when she or he is caring?” (2002, p. 43). She has lectured internationally, her theory is the basis for curriculum, and her articles resonate and influence registered nurses in all practice areas.

Later on in life – centering prayer, baking, storytelling, and singing became central. She died peacefully at Bethany, the Sisters of St. Martha's Motherhouse, in Antigonish, Nova Scotia surrounded by her community. She has influence so many of our lives, personally and professionally, and will be missed.

Submitted by Dr. Colleen Maykut (mentee, colleague, and friend)

A recognition of the life and work of Sister Simone Roach

On behalf of the Canadian Nurses Association, it is an honour to have the opportunity to pay homage to Sister Simone Roach, a significant icon in the nursing profession's history.

Sister Simone Roach was visionary. Her work promoted the development of the nursing profession and helped nurses advocate for the highest quality health care.

Sister Simone had a long and distinguished career in nursing service and nursing education. She held many leadership positions in hospitals and education settings, as well as within her congregation. Being named a Member of the Order of Canada, as well receiving as other accolades, speaks to the impact of her work.

Sister Simone's research, academic publications and presentations focused largely on the theory of caring, and she was a recognized expert in the field. She promoted deep inquiry into the nature and effects of caring and conducted and published seminal research on the topic. She shared her work within Canada and abroad with the expectation that it would be helpful to students, teachers and practitioners alike.

In 1979, the Canadian Nurses Association appointed Sister Simone as the director of an ethics project. In this role, she was instrumental in developing CNA's first Code of Ethics for Registered Nurses, published in 1980. This year, CNA is updating the Code to reflect the recent changes within our health-care system. The reach and impact of a code of ethics cannot be understated for nursing, as a self-regulating profession. The purpose of self-regulation is to serve and protect the public, and the Code of Ethics is integral in achieving this aim.

In essence, Sister Simone was instrumental to helping define ethical nursing care in Canada. For that, we are eternally grateful.

Sincerely,

IAHC President's Message

Dear supporter of caring science in nursing,

“Rediscovering love and compassion in caring practice and in caring science” is the theme of the 2017 Annual Conference of the International Association for Human Caring (IAHC). In 1979, anthropologist and nursing theorist, Madeleine Leininger, identified human caring as the essence of the nursing profession, and with a group of like-minded nurses, founded IAHC. IAHC needs your support to sustain its growth into a future where threats to human caring, including dehumanizing technology and unequal distribution of healthcare in many parts of the world, have the potential to greatly reduce the healing effects of caring practice and caring science.

Patrick J Dean RN, EDD, OSTJ
Clinical Associate Professor University of Minnesota School of Nursing
International Association for Human Caring President

Dean of Faculty of Nursing – MacEwan University

I am so pleased to welcome you to the 38th Annual Conference of the (IAHC) International Association for Human Caring! MacEwan University has a long-standing history of providing quality nursing education that is relevant and reflective of current nursing practice in the province and beyond. Caring is one of the core values of the Faculty of Nursing and through its practice, as a Faculty of Nursing we - Inspire Nurses. Create Connections. Transform Lives. I am convinced that the Human Caring conference will energize us, cause us to critically reflect as individuals, and challenge us to think about and enhance our caring practice.

Keynote Speakers

Chantal Cara, PhD., RN

Professor, Faculty of Nursing Sciences, Université de Montréal
Distinguished Caring Science Scholar, Watson Caring Science Institute

Dr. Chantal Cara is currently a full professor at the Faculty of Nursing, Université de Montréal in Québec, Canada. She earned her Ph.D. from the University Of Colorado School Of Nursing, under the directorship of Dr. Jean Watson. For almost 30 years, Dr. Cara has been actively involved in the understanding of the philosophy of caring in Nursing, more specifically in clinical rehabilitation, education, management, and research. She is a researcher at the Centre for Interdisciplinary Research in Rehabilitation (CRIR) of Greater Montreal as well as the Quebec Network on Nursing Intervention Research for humanistic nursing practices, Quebec, Canada. Recently, she was awarded the honorific title Distinguished Caring Science Scholar by the Watson Caring Science Institute, Colorado, USA.

In 1978, the National Caring Research Conference was conceived and initiated by Dr. Madeleine Leininger. The annual conference was designed to gather scholars together to share ideas, research, and theories of care and caring. The core philosophy of the association is based on the belief that caring is the essence of nursing and caring is the unique and unifying focus of the profession. The national organization began in 1987 through the generosity of 42 charter members. In 1989, with the encouragement of nurses from around the world, the conference association was changed to the International Association for Human Caring (IAHC) Inc.

The central purpose of the IAHC, Inc. is to serve as an international, scholarly forum for all nurses interested in the advancement of the knowledge of human care and caring within the discipline of nursing. In 1993, Drs. Leininger, Delores Gaut, and Malcom MacDonald produced a video outlining the history and growth of the Association. In 1994, Dr. Leininger established the Leininger Research Scholarship Fund to assist in the financial support of nurse researchers studying the phenomenon of human care and caring.

Some of the Member benefits include:
